

IN THE SPECIFICATION

A1 [0022] A substance that releases silver ions or other ions with an antibacterial effect is applied to the implant surface for this purpose. This can be done in a matrix, usually a plastic, or also a ceramic (HA or ~~ICP~~TCP). The particles located on the surface continuously give off silver ions. Metal implants can be completely or partially provided with a surface coating that releases ions.